

PATERNO & ZOBEL WIN COLOR PICTURES OF THE YEAR

1984 Master Photographer Bobby Paterno and 1978 & 1980 Master Photographer Jaime Zobel won the top honors in the color finals held last Monday November 5th at the San Lorenzo and Dasmariñas Rooms of the Hotel InterContinental Manila. Paterno, who is also the 1984 Color Slide Photographer of the Year, fittingly saw one of his transparencies awarded the title "Color Slide of the Year." It was a surrealistic-looking landscape of a desolate volcanic area in Hawaii cut by a long curving wooden boardwalk. Zobel, on the other hand, won the "Color Print Picture of the Year" with a romantic gel-misted soft portrait of two young girls by a carved stone fountain.

Taking 2nd place among the slides was Bien Bautista's mourning hands clutching a folded Philippine flag, while third place went to Dik Trofeo's landscape of the extraordinarily shaped hills of Kweilin, China. Among the color prints, 2nd place went to Francis Rivera's pole-top view of a palosebo crowd at Lukban and 3rd place to an unusual still life by Bo Villanueva.

In the color slide finals which included more than four hundred qualifiers throughout the year, the patient and conscientious judges who sat through no less than four viewings were Mrs. Eduvigis Y. Huang, professional photographer and Past President of the Professional Photographers Association of the Philippines, Mrs. Carol Stratton, a well-travelled researcher and author on Asian, especially Thai, art, and Prof. Rafael Asuncion, former creative director for advertising firms and now Professor of Visual Communications at the College of Fine Arts of the University of the Philippines and practising painter. After two viewings, the judges narrowed down the field to 137 slides out of which they chose the winners.

In the color print finals which included 174 prints, the panel of judges was composed of Dr. Rodolfo P. Perez, an art historian and author with a doctorate from Harvard University, former professor at the U.P. College of Fine Arts, world-renowned woodcut print maker now connected with the Research Department of the National Library; Prof. Romeo C. Mananquil, Chairman of the Department of Visual Communications of the U.P. College of Fine Arts, painter, illustrator, cartoonist, amateur photographer and designer of the new Central Bank notes and coins; Mr. Ramonlito Abaño, Advertising, Promotions and Publicity Manager of SM Shoemart, Inc.

'VIEWFINDER' WINS PSA HONORS AGAIN

These last three years, the CCP has been submitting samples of its club bulletin to the International Bulletin Contest of the Photographic Society of America's Camera Club Committee, and each year the CCP's publication has been winning higher and higher awards.

In 1982, when the monthly bulletin (as distinguished from the sometimes quarterly folio magazine Viewfinder) first came to be in printed form under President Ramon Marcos, the CCP submitted the January, February and March 1982 issues to the PSA. That year, a total of 272 entries were submitted from all over the world, out of which 155 were classified as coming from "large clubs." The CCP is classified under the "Large Club Division," and its bulletin scored 258 out of a total 465 points possible, ranking it 58th out of 155 large club bulletins. The CCP Bulletin also received a "Creative Award" ribbon that year, expressly for the "use of prints and illustrations."

In 1983, under President Luis Abiva, Jr.'s administration, the monthly bulletin was merged with the old magazine-format Viewfinder under the latter title. For that year, the fancier Viewfinder was ranked as a 27th tie placer among the large clubs, thus winning an Honorable Mention award. And it won the "Most Creative Bulletin" plaque award. That year a total of 315 entries were received from all over the world.

For 1984, the club submitted the November-December 1983 issue of the Viewfinder, because of the May cut-off date of the contest. This time, the Viewfinder was ranked 15th out of 151 entries from the "Large Club Division," earning 360 out of a possible 453 points, thus garnering an Honor Award. It also was awarded one out of only two Chairman's "Most Creative Bulletin" plaques. There were a total of 282 entries competing internationally.

In 1982, the members most responsible for the bulletin were Bobby Paterno and Emil Davocol. With regard to the entries for 1983 and 1984, the members most responsible were Quincy Castillo, Louie Abiva and Emil Davocol.
